Challenge

A creative workshop organiser (fictional) collected sign-ups through online forms and WhatsApp messages. Data lived in several places, classes were often overbooked, and the team had to match bank transfers one by one.

Before each class the team also sent tickets and reminders by hand, so much of their time went into admin work.

Goals

- Registration completed in one flow on a phone
- Class quotas that lock automatically when full
- Tickets, reminders, and certificates sent without manual work

Process

- Research: mapping the old sign-up flow with the organisers

- Wireframes: class catalogue, three-step form, and organiser dashboard
- Design: mobile first, then desktop
- Development: payments, quotas, QR tickets, and certificates
- Testing: sign-up rehearsals with the organisers before launch

Solution

Visitors choose a class from a filterable catalogue, enter a few details, and pay in a single three-step flow. Once payment is confirmed, a QR ticket is emailed and the class seat count drops automatically.

Organisers manage everything from one dashboard: participant lists, payment status, remaining seats, plus reminders and certificates after each class.

Key features: Class catalogue with category & time filters · Three-step mobile registration form · Automatic class quota lock · QR tickets & email reminders · Organiser dashboard and automatic certificates

Performance: Target PageSpeed 90+ (ponsel)
